President's Message

Three of our members deserve special thanks, as their actions ensured the success of Swissypalooza. Many of us are happy to help when called and asked. But these three members saw a need and made that call offering to help. None of them ever put on a dog event of this type or magnitude. While there were many of us (myself included) who supported their efforts, these three made the various pieces fit together as a seamless event.

Thank you Melissa (Jarriel)!

Thank you Linda (Yanusz)!

Thank you Debbie (Echols)!

You all know that I am not the Southbound cheerleader. I'm much more of the "just the facts" type. The Southbound membership expressed the desire to host another National Specialty. The Board put together a site selection committee, and that committee found two wonderful sites. The GSDMCA Board approved our bid and contract negotiations are complete. We will host the 2011 National Specialty at Tanglewood Park in Clemmons, North Carolina.

Now the hard work begins! We need to transition into an event committee. The current Southbound Board will not be in office during the 2011 event. There are a gazillion ways to support the event. We need every member to think about the support they can commit to provide and make that call.

I hope everyone had a great holiday season and gave their Swisssys lots of kisses and love.

—Molly E.

Swissypalooza: A Big Success!

Held November 5-9 in Pickens, SC, the first Swissypalooza was a tremendous success. The site was gorgeous, the weather was perfect, the company was fun, and the dogs did very well! Take a look at the results of the events:

Hike Summary: Jones Gap State Park

Sunday, November 8, 2009
by Leigh Poole

Our group for Sunday's hike was small – Scott, Miles & Bruster Patton; Jennifer & Tally Davis; Leigh Poole, and Ryan & Herschel Fleek. Tally and Herschel were going for legs and Bruster was along for the view. Thankfully Jennifer was with us because she was familiar with procedures at Jones Gap. For each car, we needed to put $2 per adult in a mailbox near the parking lot and hang a parking tag in our car. Then in another box closer to the trail, Jennifer filed a hiking plan for the group; this was so the park rangers would know how many people were on the trail and when we were planning to return. Apparently there have been some situations when hikers haven't returned...yikes! Thankfully the hike turned out to be moderate and nothing less than beautiful!

The trail winds along the Middle Saluda River and ascends almost 1,500 feet (we stopped and turned around somewhere around 1,000-1,100 feet). As we started the hike, we heard the ring of a bear bell. Scott had placed it on his pack in memory of Flurry, whose spirit was with us that day. She would have been plowing ahead, never letting her age slow her down. She was always able to keep up with the youngsters. We're sure she enjoyed the hike as much as anyone that day.

We started the trail going over a number of medium-sized boulders and crossing several river beds....thank goodness for Gortex! We passed a number of campers. The campsites are large and are just off the path, close to the river. On the way up we stopped at one of the waterfalls for pictures. Miles was very brave and climbed on the rocks to get closer to the falling water (see below). We continued the steady climb and turned around once we were 4.5 miles in (verified by Ron's GPS a couple days before). There were also a couple of downed trees in our path so we felt that was a great place to do an about turn. On the way down, we stopped at one of the falls we skipped on the way up. We all enjoyed the break, took some pictures, and then headed down for the last couple miles. Miles was a trooper that day, enjoying the day with his Dad and Swissy friends. Herschel loved Miles patting him on the head as they walked side by side, Tally posed perfectly for pictures as always, and Bruster was as quiet as a mouse, such a good boy!

Once we returned to the starting area, Jennifer marked our group as "returned", we said our goodbyes, and all headed out. There was a line of cars waiting to enter the park as we exited, so this is a popular destination. I understand why – it's a gorgeous hike! I understand this is Cilla's hike, so thanks so much, Cilla, for selecting this location. We'd love to do it again!

North Carolina Swissy Picnic 2009

by Leigh Poole

For several years Southbound has held state picnics in the various states across the footprint during the cooler fall months. The 4th Annual North Carolina Swissy Picnic was held on October 11, 2009 at Cedarrock Park in Burlington, NC. We had a huge turnout! There were approximately 25 humans and 20 Swissys in attendance. We were excited to have newcomers this year: the Krellwitz family from Durham with Oakley, the Davis family from Raleigh with Big, Ellie & Rhone, and the Massingill family from Chapel Hill with Bandi. Bandi was our youngest Swissy this year and Onyx the eldest and wisest.

The park and weather were just perfect for a day of Swissy good times! As dogs arrived they received Halloween themed bandanas in their size that Ann prepared ahead of time – the dogs were dressed for fun! After a bit of catching up and socializing, we shared in a terrific lunch of tacos, taco salads and nachos, and we all said “Baroo Ole!” Several took advantage of the fall display Ann and Leigh set up with a scarecrow, hay bale, and mums. Darlene and Larry very graciously agreed to take pictures of Swissys with and without their humans. Here's a huge THANK YOU to both of them. What wonderful photography!

We had excellent drafting demonstrations by Danny & Kaiser and Laura & Grainger. Linda & Kasey and Kelly & Burger demonstrated tandem carting, as well. Several people introduced their Swissy(s) to drafting with the help of Danny, Linda, and Laura.

Caleb and baby sister, Maya, even enjoyed a cart ride with Grainger (see picture below)!

Tracy set up a mock Rally course and demonstrated how much fun that is with a Swissy. Lots of folks went through the course, either as practice or as an introduction. Some of us were better at it than others! Several dog-handler teams joined in the one-mile hike through the woods led by Susan and Leigh. Along the way Susan answered hiking questions for a few folks who are new to pack dog. Others stayed back at the shelter and discussed raw feeding vs. kibble, vaccination protocols, and other breed topics.

Throughout the afternoon, fun and useful door prizes were awarded to the lucky number drawn. Just about every human went home with a prize. To top off the experience, each dog went home with a treat bag. It was exciting to open the treat bag once home, even after knowing what went into them!

We enjoyed planning this event and couldn't have pulled it off alone. Thank you to everyone doing the demos and helping others practice the various working events. We must extend special thanks to the staff at Cedarrock Park – the shelter and shelter location are perfect – restrooms, picnic tables, lots of areas for x-pens & crates, and a flat grassy area for games & demos accompany it. The weekend staff is used to seeing Swissys in the area and was more than happy to see many more that day! Susan Tucker was able to get the shelter rental for us at no cost – THANK YOU so much, Susan – we hope our NC group can revisit the park next year!

Thanks also to all who attended and participated in the picnic, traveling from east and north of Raleigh, Durham, Chapel Hill, Cary, Graham, Greensboro and north of Greensboro. The day came to an end all too soon – it was a day full of beautiful Swissys and lots of fun and laughter. So... what about a Swissy Carnival next year???

Stacey Guvin

Members of your family: Stacey, Brad, Gregory, and Madeline

Dog names: Ch Living Waters Coda Bear "Coda" and Halfmoon's Dreaming Meeko "Meeko"

Where do you live? Alabaster, Alabama

How long have you been involved in Swissys?
Two and a half years.

Activities you've done with Swissys? Conformation, Packing, Weight Pull, some obedience (for CGC), and now Rally

How did you get involved with Swissys? Of all things, doginfo.com. After losing our Shepherd (12) and lab (14) within a month of each other one summer, I promised my children that we would get a puppy after Madeline was cleared from her open-heart surgery. Much to my relief, they did not request a puppy from Santa Claus that year. Surgery was in April, and I had been researching breeds since Christmas. I had almost given up on finding a Swissy puppy when a friend at work found a breeder (Dolores) that may have one puppy left. Dolores was very hesitant in providing a puppy to a family that had a child that was recovering from open-heart surgery (and this was warranted). I had to convince her that we were a special family and that this was what we needed. I'm really not sure of her reason; but, Coda became ours and was the BEST puppy that anyone could ever have asked for. He was (is) very protective of both my children, as if this is his calling from a higher power. We are very fortunate to have found Dolores and Coda.

Why did you choose to get a Swissy? We have always had large breed dogs and like to be outdoors with them.

What is your favorite memory since you've been in Southbound? When Gregory was asked to show a bitch for someone and was able to get Best of Opposite.

Please share one funny/cute story about one of your Swissys. Gregory and Meeko had been taking obedience to test for the CGC. They had been working very diligently and were prepared for the test. Coda and I were taking the test the same day and, in an effort to calm the dogs down before the test, I sent Meeko and Coda to open play that day. Gregory and Meeko started with the test and were passing everything with flying colors until the part of the test required Meeko to sit while Gregory walked away. Well, she was tired. Meeko kept laying down and Gregory was unable to get her to stay seated. She looked up at him as if to say....do I really have to stand up? I just want to sleep for a while. Gregory was disappointed, but we now know not to wear her out too much before she takes a test. :)

Dog names: Swissy: Ch Sawmill River's Grainger McKey RN WWD "Grainger" and Australian Shepherd: Charleston's Tucks Edo CD RE "Tuck." I also co-own another Swissy, Sawmill's She's a Sure Shot! "Oakley."

Where do you live? Raleigh, NC

Activities you've done with Swissys? Conformation, Rally, Weight Pull, Drafting, Hiking, and Obedience. I've also taken agility classes—not my cup of tea. We just got started with herding lessons, too.

How did you get involved with Swissys? I'd wanted a Swissy for at least five years before I actually was blessed with one. While at a dog show about four years ago, I met Melissa Jarriel and Keygan who had just come out of the agility ring. She was nice enough to answer a bunch of questions and give me her email address, and we kept in touch. She put me in touch with breeder Judy Fletcher, as a breeding was coming up between Keygan and her lovely Deme. I'm very excited to have one of their sons, Grainger.

Why did you choose to get a Swissy? Everything I had read about them sounded just like what I wanted—big, but gentle and goofy. The first time you see a really nice Swissy with that great expression and smile, you just fall in love. Who can resist?

What is your favorite memory since you've been in Southbound? Grainger was about a year old during my first time in Perry. I only knew a few people before then, so nobody really knew me. Despite my horrendous handling, Grainger took a 5-pt major one of the days. Everyone ringside really clapped for me and was sincerely happy for us. That meant a lot since I barely knew anyone. I'll never forget how nice everyone was.

Please share one funny/cute story about one of your Swissys. Living with Grainger means MANY funny stories. Almost everyone knows the story of Grainger and the green bean casserole, so I will share another.

My Australian Shepherds have always loved ice—they love chasing it on the kitchen floor, they love eating it—they love it. So, I used to give everyone a piece of ice from the ice dispenser on my refrigerator door.

Grainger was about 11 months old and was slowly gaining house privileges. He was up to about 15 minutes of unsupervised (out of his crate) time, so I took a nap and left him loose downstairs with the other dogs.

After a 20-25 minute nap, I came downstairs into the kitchen and noticed there was about an inch of water all over the floor. The dogs were all staring at the water and had completely innocent looks on their faces (of course). I was concerned about a possible dishwasher leak or a washing machine leak (laundry room was connected to the kitchen), but I couldn't find a leak anywhere!

I cleaned up the water and still could not find the source. About an hour later, I heard running water and noticed Grainger was in the kitchen. He had his chin on the ice dispenser with both Aussies looking on—waiting for ice to come out. But, the switch was set on water instead. That booger had been trying to dispense ice and had almost flooded my kitchen while I slept! Now, the ice/water dispenser is always on child lock.

Hard Core Hiking: Jordan Lake, Apex NC

Saturday, January 2nd
by Leigh Poole

We were a small group, but we were fierce! The temps started in the mid 20s, and with the wind chill it felt like the 20s throughout the hike. The temps continued to drop and the wind grew stronger as the day went on. What a way to usher in a new decade! Hiking for legs we had Jennifer Davis with Tally, Linda Yanusz with Dash, and Leigh Poole with Herschel. Along for exercise and fun were Tracy Brainard, Darlene Ward, and Ryan Fleek. I call this the hard core hike not just because of everyone deciding to brave the cold and wind, but because half of the group hiked without dogs and Jennifer drove 8+ hours round-trip in the same day to hike 10 miles – wow! I was amazed and very happy to have such a committed group hiking.

We enjoyed a moderate hike with several steady inclines and a few flat areas. Most of the hike was along the lake. We started out around 9 am on blue trail. We went out to the overlook near the lake so everyone could see how expansive it is. Jordan is one of the largest recreation spots in the area, located near the geographical center of NC, and offers a variety of facilities for recreation seekers including campsites, hiking trails, picnic areas, beaches, boat launching ramps, and a marina. We often see fishermen out in their boats this time of year. In the summer the lake is full of boaters water skiing and tubing.

The wind near the water was much stronger and we noticed ice was forming on the rocks just below us. We headed back to the trailhead and finished right around 1 pm. Even without Danny we made great time!

The trails are in great shape considering all the recent rain we've had – there were only a couple of slightly muddy spots to cross. The trails aren't traveled nearly as much as some of the others we train on and they're covered with pine straw, which is great cushioning for the joints. Ryan enjoys these trails more because there are less roots and rocks to watch for. Although Jennifer may beg to differ because she had a couple battles with fallen tree limbs! There are a number of trees that have fallen in recent months – all part of the cycle. We saw not another soul on the trails so it was great to have the place to ourselves.

All of the dogs earned Excellent (WPDX) legs:
Bermuda High's Heads Up Tallulah "Tally" Owned & Handled by Jennifer Davis (4th WPDX leg)
Ch.BlueMist All-American Herschel "Herschel" Owned & Handled by Leigh Poole (4th WPDX leg)
Halfmoon's Dashing Big Blue "Dash" Owned & Handled by Linda Yanusz (5th WPDX leg)

After the hike we headed to Tyler's Taproom in Apex for a warm meal and laughter. Oddly enough we were all colder in our street clothes inside at the restaurant than in our hiking clothes outside on the trails. Congratulations to all, this hike was not easy, especially with the cold weather. Keep up the great work and stay tuned for information on the Umstead B2B.

Cheers to all of the other hard core hikers out there! Hope you're enjoying an unusually cold winter in the south. Yes, we're dressed like the Michelin man!

In Loving Memory of Bonnie Doon (1998-2009)

Rippling Waters Bonnie Doon, CGC, HIT, NWPD

I sent her off on a clear cold day. The kind she loved to sit on the porch and just watch when it was cold cold out there. And even though my eyes are swollen from the tears, I can see her walking on four good strong legs, looking for the Chihuahua section.

She was a dog whose presence among other dogs was clear, she was the alpha. She decided who could play and who needed to stay on the deck. While she pretended to be aloof, she never took her eyes off me. She never refused to do anything for me, if I asked her to do it, she gave it her all. She was just like that. She was smart, confident, willing and bold. Everything you could ever want in a Swissy. And more.

And she was beautiful. Her breeder, Peggy Roderick, told me that in the litter of 13 puppies, you never had any problem picking out Bonnie Doon, she was the whitest face there. And the one usually in mischief!

Thank you Peggy and Dave, I cannot imagine my life without my beautiful girl.

Go far, my girl, on four strong legs.....find those Chihuahuas.....they keep them somewhere over there!

On our walk with the two dogs last night, we turned the corner and faced our house at the end of the street. The moon was rising just above it. We saw the moonbeam stretch from our back yard, through Max's star and the Orion constellation and on to the edge of the moon and I felt Pepsi's breeze on my cheek. Frank said they were guiding Bonnie Doon home.

The moon will always remind me of my girl.
